

JUDGE ORDERS SPEEDY TRIAL

Prominent Wilmington Men Indicted for Maintaining Fish Trust.

(Special to the Times-Dispatch.)
Wilmington, N. C., January 24.—Following the special charge delivered by Judge Frank Carter, of the Superior Court, as to trusts, the grand jury today returned indictments against Ex-Alderman W. H. Yopp, J. B. Palea and D. J. Fergus, former members of the Board of Education, and R. C. Fergus, C. W. Fitch and Ed Taylor for maintaining a fish trust.

Counsel for the accused men resisted a motion on the part of the State for an immediate trial, but Judge Carter allowed the motion and set the cases for trial next week, holding that the present situation as to high prices needed speedy investigation. Over a year ago indictments were returned against the same defendants, and are now pending, but the cases that have just developed are considered the strong ones.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Main Mansion House on Nicholas Estate Totally Consumed.

Arvonia, Va., January 24.—The main mansion house on the well known old Nicholas estate, known throughout this section as "Jordan," was totally destroyed by fire from the chimney, as the flames broke out about daybreak, just after fire had been kindled in the kitchen for breakfast.

The house was occupied at the time of the fire by the Wheeler family, formerly of Augusta County, who had been living there for about a year. It is understood that they had contracted or arranged to purchase the property from the present owner, Henry Harris, of Scottsville.

The origin of the fire is unknown, though it is thought that it originated from sparks from the chimney, as the flames broke out about daybreak, just after fire had been kindled in the kitchen for breakfast.

It is said that there was no insurance on the building, the policy having expired.

This well-known home was for a generation or more the home of a branch of the Nicholas family, having been sold several years ago by Robert C. Nicholas, of Charlottesville, to W. J. Tyson, of Washington; Tyson, in turn, sold it to the present owner, Henry H. Harris, of Scottsville.

The estimate of the loss is heavy, the house being a valuable one, having been put in thorough repair by the late W. J. Tyson.

NEW YORK DOCTOR DIVORCED.

Mrs. Self Obtains Decree at Reno on Charges of Cruelty.

Reno, Nev., January 24.—Etta Self, the young wife of Isadore Self, a physician, of 108 West 118th Street, New York, obtained a divorce upon her recital of various acts of cruelty she charged against her husband. The case was heard behind closed doors. Mrs. Self will resume her maiden name, Etta Pitt. She married Dr. Self at her parents' home in New York City on February 12 last year. From their wedding day, she complained, he was cruel to her. Two months later, after he had dragged her down stairs, she left him, leaving her hysterical and injured, she left him.

WIN TRIPS TO COLUMBIA.

Champion Boy Corn Growers of Halifax County.

Houston, Va., January 24.—Giles Sydney Terry, of News Ferry, and Charlie Green, of Alto, are the two corn club boys of Halifax County who won free trips to the Fifth National Corn Exposition, which opens at Columbia, S. C., on Monday. Their yields of corn were 113 bushels and 45 bushels, respectively. The yield, cost, exhibit of best ten ears and full history of crop were made the merits of award. The boys left to-day for Columbia.

MURDERER DIES OF FEAR.

Dread of Chair Kills Roberts in Sing Sing Death House.

Ossining, N. Y., January 24.—Joseph Roberts, a negro elevator runner, sentenced to the electric chair for the murder of Isaac S. Vogel, a jewelry peddler of 123 Canal Street, died of a heart attack in the death house of Sing Sing Prison.

Fear of the electric chair brought on the attack which killed him, Coroner Dunn said Roberts was to have been executed in the week of February 10.

Sale of Rebuilt Used Pianos---

A Few Remain

Pianos taken in exchange for grand and Pianola Pianos. Rebuilt and practically good as new.

Note the exceptionally low prices:

FREYMAN.
Upright style, mahogany case, selling when new at $325; SALE PRICE... $205

KIMBALL.
Upright style, oak case, instrument practically new, selling regularly at $325; SALE PRICE... $220

Also the following:

SOHMER.
Upright style, mahogany case.

STEINWAY.
Upright style, ebony case.

Selection should be made at once.

Walter D. Moses & Co.
163 East Broad Street.

Oldest Music House in Virginia and North Carolina.

SURGERY MAY GIVE BOY HIS LOST MIND

Hurt When 7, at 13 He Has the Brain of a Child of 8.

New York, January 24.—Surgical skill may let sunshine into the life of Charles Walters, thirteen years old, who was arraigned in the Children's Court yesterday on the charge of attempted suicide by gas inhalation on January 1.

Dr. Max G. Schlapp, neurologist for the Children's Society, in whose care Charles has been and in whose charge he was again remanded yesterday, has found that six years ago the child suffered a fracture of the skull. Since that time he has been irritable, gloomy, depressed and erratic.

His sister, Mrs. Charles Wagner, of No. 122 Second Avenue, with whom he lives, says he was injured when seven years old, and since then has complained of a pain in his head and in his side. He also has been unhappy, refused to play with other children and been easily irritated.

Dr. Schlapp applied the Binet mentality test to him. By it, Charles has only the mind of an eight-year-old child.

He was pale and sad when he appeared in court yesterday. The doctors believe a piece of bone is pressing on his brain. As soon as his system can be built up to stand an operation, it will be undertaken.

OPPOSE NEGRO SEGREGATION.

Special Committee Reports Against Proposed St. Louis Ordinance.

St. Louis, January 24.—A special committee of five whites and five negroes, appointed by the St. Louis Civic League to investigate the housing of negroes, issued a statement protesting against a proposed ordinance segregating the negroes of St. Louis. A bill that to effect is pending in the municipal assembly.

The committee's statement says: "Our committee is unanimously of the opinion that the problem of the relation of white and colored people cannot be solved by crystallizing prejudices into legislation. The proposed law frequently would prevent colored people from improving their condition by moving into better neighborhoods. We cannot believe that any broad-minded American can regard the legal segregation of races as American or Christian."

The committee adds that the proposed law is unconstitutional.

Brings Suit Against Town.
(Special to the Times-Dispatch.)

Harrisonburg, Va., January 24.—On account of injuries sustained at the hydro-electric plant, Henry Royer, fifty years old, has entered suit against the town of Harrisonburg for $5,000.

The accident occurred on the morning of the day the accident occurred.

CHILD FOUND ON PIER.
Father, Wanted on Forgery Charge, Thought to Have Sailed.

Redbank, N. J., January 24.—Little Hilda Raab is home again. She was taken from school by her father, and nothing more was seen of her until she was found on the pier of the Hamburg-American Line, after the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria had sailed for Hamburg. Hilda was weeping bitterly, and between sobs she said her father had sailed away on the big ship and left her alone.

"Papa" was Bruno Raab, a farmer, for whom a warrant was issued on a charge of forging the name of Adam Mauser, a canon of Lincolnton, to two notes, amounting to $25.

OLDEST CHICAGOAN DIES.
Edwin O. Gale Saw City Grow From Village to Metropolis With Millions.

Chicago, January 24.—Edwin O. Gale, in point of residence the oldest Chicagoan, died last night at his home in Oak Park, a suburb, at the age of eighty-one.

From a frontier village of 600 white inhabitants, overrun by wild animals and Indians, Mr. Gale witnessed every stage of the change that has taken place in the city of Chicago.

He was brought to Chicago in 1833 by his parents. The old brig Illinois carried the Gale family from Buffalo,

JEAN'S HUSBAND KILLS YOUNG BRIDE

He Then Shoots Himself After Writing Note Accusing His Rival.

New York, January 24.—Accusing his young bride of receiving attentions from other men, Walter Vermilyea Robinson, was arrested in the Robinson home and held by Coroner Healy in $2,000 bail as a material witness.

Robinson, who was twenty-one years old, was a graduate of a technical school and was employed as an electrical engineer by the Commercial Electrical Company, of Long Island City. Mrs. Robinson was the daughter of John W. Johnston, who has the contract for the planning work in the new Municipal Building. They were married last April and had lived with her parents.

Frequent quarrels between the young couple had been witnessed by the family, who believed Robinson insanely jealous, particularly of Hobson, who is chauffeur for the Building Department, and who lives at No. 406 Park Avenue.

Robinson did not go to work yesterday, and he and his wife had several quarrels during the day. A little before 5 o'clock Mrs. Robinson's sister, who was in the basement of the dwelling, heard three shots and ran upstairs.

She found Mrs. Robinson on the floor, with a bullet hole in her cheek, another in her right breast, and a third in her abdomen. Screaming the sister ran from the house and called several policemen. As they entered they heard three shots from an upstairs bedroom, where they found Robinson dead. He had shot himself in the right temple, the right side of his neck and then he still held in his hands.

Near his body was a letter which Robinson had written, apparently after he had shot his wife. In it he wrote:

"I haven't committed this deed without due consideration. My wife had been going out with other men right with this man Hobson, who is a married man. She even told me he was going to get a divorce so he can marry her. Wednesday night when I came home who was in the dining room but Hobson. He was drinking and he was denouncing his wife's mother, who was too ill in bed to be seen by the police, and continued: 'I know she is at rest now and in no temptation. I know she won't be forgiven, but I must do this. Ask my mother to forgive me, as I love her, but I haven't shown it. Hoping I shall be forgiven, I remain, a heart-broken husband.'

(Signed) "W. V. ROBINSON."

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

JEAN'S HUSBAND KILLS YOUNG BRIDE

He Then Shoots Himself After Writing Note Accusing His Rival.

New York, January 24.—Accusing his young bride of receiving attentions from other men, Walter Vermilyea Robinson, was arrested in the Robinson home and held by Coroner Healy in $2,000 bail as a material witness.

Robinson, who was twenty-one years old, was a graduate of a technical school and was employed as an electrical engineer by the Commercial Electrical Company, of Long Island City. Mrs. Robinson was the daughter of John W. Johnston, who has the contract for the planning work in the new Municipal Building. They were married last April and had lived with her parents.

Frequent quarrels between the young couple had been witnessed by the family, who believed Robinson insanely jealous, particularly of Hobson, who is chauffeur for the Building Department, and who lives at No. 406 Park Avenue.

Robinson did not go to work yesterday, and he and his wife had several quarrels during the day. A little before 5 o'clock Mrs. Robinson's sister, who was in the basement of the dwelling, heard three shots and ran upstairs.

She found Mrs. Robinson on the floor, with a bullet hole in her cheek, another in her right breast, and a third in her abdomen. Screaming the sister ran from the house and called several policemen. As they entered they heard three shots from an upstairs bedroom, where they found Robinson dead. He had shot himself in the right temple, the right side of his neck and then he still held in his hands.

Near his body was a letter which Robinson had written, apparently after he had shot his wife. In it he wrote:

"I haven't committed this deed without due consideration. My wife had been going out with other men right with this man Hobson, who is a married man. She even told me he was going to get a divorce so he can marry her. Wednesday night when I came home who was in the dining room but Hobson. He was drinking and he was denouncing his wife's mother, who was too ill in bed to be seen by the police, and continued: 'I know she is at rest now and in no temptation. I know she won't be forgiven, but I must do this. Ask my mother to forgive me, as I love her, but I haven't shown it. Hoping I shall be forgiven, I remain, a heart-broken husband.'

(Signed) "W. V. ROBINSON."

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The family said his wife since they were married.

When Coroner Healy read the note a young man in the room said he would inform Mrs. Robinson's father of the tragedy. He was detained, and proved to be Hobson. He declared his relations with Mrs. Robinson always had been proper, although he had taken her for numerous automobile rides. The